General Comment

As a little person, I have encountered issues with voting booths and machines that are too high or too far back for me to reach. Recurring issues with this led me to recurring absentee voting when I lived in California, as filling out a paper ballot at home and dropping it off was much more accessible for me. However, where I live now doesn't have regular no-excuse-required absentee voting, and so every time I vote I have to worry about whether there's an accessible machine, whether it will be available, etc. Excuse-free absentee voting by mail is one way to make voting more accessible.
